MY ANSWER

a 1964 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: In your sermons don't you think you should emphasize the social gospel? -P. B.

ANSWER: I lay a great deal of emphasis on the social applications of the Gospel. Our Lord told His disciples that they were the salt of the earth, the light of the world. For a Christian to ignore the social problems around him is a tragedy But, it is my conviction that men must be won to Christ as personal Savior before He can become the Lord of their lives. I believe that man must come into what has been called a vital vertical relationship with God before he can live with a proper horizontal relationship with his fellow man. In other words, as a Christian minister, my first responsibilty is to win men to Christ, then and only then can and will they ve as Christians in the worl

In our immediately past generation there were those who largely took the Christian message to be one of social ethics. and reform. Men have now learned again that there must be a spiritual dynamic and this comes solely through the work of the Holy Spirit in the hearts of men, enabling them to believe in and accept Christ Christ called this the new birth. There have been Christians who have neglected their social responsibilities but let us remember that almost all great social reforms have come through the application of Christian principles. Also, most of our institutions for relief of suffering had their origin in the church, as did many of our institutions of learning.

QUESTION: Please explain what you meant by your statement that the world's problems are theologocal. - M.D.

ANSWER. The world's problems are basically theological in the sense that the majority of the people in the world are out of a right relationship to God. The word theology really means a knowledge of God and that is what we all need. And. more than just a knowledge of Him, we need to trust Him, love Him serve Him and belong to Him This comes about by faith in His Son We all know that Men and nations set against each other, class against class. race against race. But, where men know God and give their hearts to Him, these tensions and animosities disappear and an entirely different atmosphere results. Men do not have to be come theologians in the technical sense, but they need to know that God, the creator of this world and the sustainer of His creation is the one worthy of and due all honor and worship and we ignore or neglect Him to our own immediate and our eternal loss. That is why the world's problems are theological-men need God and cannot possibly get along without Him, unless they wish to continue to live in QUESTION: Will you please explain the various translations of the Bible? -I. A.

ANSWER: There are many translations of the Bible, both the Old and New Testaments. The Old Testament was originally written in Hebrew, and the New Testament in Greek. All of our translations are derived from these. Each translation has its merit and each one has been criticised in its tme. Each national language has the Bible in its own tongue, except some of the tribal groups of retarded nations.

The King James Version is most widely accepted by English speaking people and possesses a beauty of expression seldom rivalled. Read Psalm "3 and John 14. Your heart will be warmed and comforted when you do. Then read Romans chapter five in a modern translation such as Phillips or Williams and you will feel the Bible is a contemporary book. Get a copy of the Amplified New Testament and read John, chapter three and Romans chapter eight. You will find it slow reading but the meaning of the text becomes very celar.

But whatever version you fead, read prayerfully asking God to enlighten your mind and heart to receive the truth.

The mortality rate in the United States-number of deaths per 1,000 population - has dropped by nearly 45 per cent since 1900, according to the Food and Drug Administration.

HEAR THESE WORDS Worship In Church Every Week

e forgivefine specimen of young manhood ... maybe my neighbor or maybe yours. He is not a bad boy, just one without training. His parents don't like the church and actually boast of never attending. What a tragedy. How unfair to the children of such homes... to put "Other Gods first." This lad needs love, direction, guidance. He needs forgiveness, for only "as we forgive can we be forgiven." Police officers, "Big Brothers" and good church people help but it also requires being acquainted with God. The Church In You -Have you asked the court to parole a boy to you instead of allowing him to go to jail? Maybe he needs just one more chance. The manifold mercies of Heaven are available, if a man, woman or child will turn in good purpose to Him. The church on the corner can help any boy, or girl, or man, or woman. Won't you see for yourself?

With the except of baseball activity, the youngsters have an opportunity to enjoy the long vacation holiday being free from any strict training agenda. That's the leisuretime schedule for the majority of the high school athletes.

But for Jim Ryun, a 17-yearold Wichita track star the school vacation means hard work. Ryun is presently training for a berth on the U.S. Olympic team, and the lean 6-3 prepster faces a formidable task he faces a tough field of veteran collegiate milers in the Olympic final trials in Los Angeles, Sept. 12-13.

There are only two slots open for the 1500 meter event since Dyrol Burleson qualified for one of the three slots last June 27 during the National AAU track meet at New Brunswick, N.J., with a time of 3:45.4.

Ryun will face such notable milers as Chicago's Tom O'Hara, Jim Grelle, who edged the Kansas flash at the tape in the AAU meet, Archie San Romani Jr., and UCLA's Bob Day. All runners have posted times under the four-minute barrier. Ryun shed some light on the

REMEMBER WHEN — When the Pikes Peak Highway was first opened, you had a choice of walking or taking a carriage road up to the summit of America's most famous Peak. Neither the road nor the ride

'Cleopatra' Set Thursday At the Ute

Elizabeth Taylor reaches the pinnacle of her career in the title role of "Cleopatra," which opens at the Ute Theatre on Thursday. This romantic spectacle, in color, will be shown three times daily. There will be no reserved seats for this engagement at special, popular prices.

Co-starred with Miss Taylor are Richard Burton, as Mark Anthony and Rex Harrison as Julius Caesar. Each was selected as the one most perfect to fill their respective roles in the most expensive and most talked about motion picture in the history of the industry.

Although it is hard to believe, Elizabeth Taylor has been acting in films for 20 years. But there is no doubt that she has reached the top as a box - office attraction, as her films have attracted large audiences all over the world.

For many years, however, the trail of her career was more frequently strewn with rocks than roses. Tied at childhood to a long - term contract with MGM, she often found herself playing second fiddle to a procession of four -footed screen stars, Lassie being one of her most frequent co-stars. But she was determined to continue her development as a serious act-

Unlike most other child performers, there were no lean years for her as she grew up. Perhaps because she matured so quickly, she was soon the leading lady for sundry MGM actors.

But those contract years were utilized by her as a kind of dramatic finishing school.

But she wasn't permitted to be herself until the studio loaned her to Paramount for George Stevens' "A Place in the Sun." It was her first truly adult role, though she was still a teen-ager.

Las Vegas Fun Film At Aircadia

Ever been to Las Vegas?

If you haven't, you can get a close-up of America's popular resort playground with Elvis Presley as your guide in Metro-Goldwyn Mayers scintillaling new musical romance, "Viva Las Vegas", starting Wednesday at the Aircadia Drivein Theatre, co-starring Elvis with glamorous Ann-Margaret, and filmed in Panavision and color — right on the spot!

The round - the - clock excitement and Las Vegas beautiful showgirls explode onto the screen as the kaleidoscope background for this racy and songfilled story of a sports car racer who falls in love at first sight but doesn't know the girl's name or address.

Cooper Holds Wacky Comedy Second Week

Shirley MacLaine, who gets progressively richer and richer as she becomes involved with six men, in "What A Way To Go!," the wacky comedy in CinemaScope and De Luxe color in its second week at the Cooper Theatre, is gowned as each of her five husbands would like her to be and as they can afford her to be — and, in the fantasy sequences with each husband, as they both imagine she would be.

Shirley's five husbands — and one suitor who didn't reach the altar — are Robert Mitchum, Paul Newman, Dean Martin, Gene Kelly, Bob Cummings and Dick Van Dyke.

Shirley's 72 - outfit wardrobe ranges from blue jeans to diamond - studded gowns, from bikinis to nighties, from wayout beatnik type dresses to handsomely conservative suits.

The result is a panorama of high and low fashion that will delight and astonish all audiences. There is an imaginative bedtime series of night-gowns that go from short to shorter, all somewhat exaggerated for the fantasy sequence.

The camera is used to a good advantage to present the 'new look' in motion pictures in "What A Way To GO!" working in a new way — for color and style and images that have never been done before. In fact, the effects really bring a new kind of fun and entertainment to the screen!

Thinking she must be one of the pulchritudinous girls making up the chorus lines of the pleasure places that make up the Nevada city's famous "Strip," Presley and his pal. Cesare Danova, search for Ann-Margaret at the various night clubs. And that's how you get in on the tour.

Scenes from elaborate production numbers feature the chorus lines of three show places — the Folie Bergere of the Tropicana, the Copa Girls of the Sands, and the Flower Drum Song girls of the Thunderbird. In addition, entertainers include Lance Le-Gault and the Dynamics, the Jubilaire Quartet, stripper Beverly Hills and comdeian Jack Carter.

And here's a scene that took place at the Tropicana which definitely was not in the script of "Viva Las Vegas." When Presley searched the chorus line, the 40 Folies Bergere girls were ready and waiting - to swoon. The chorines had worked it out among themselves that when Elvis appeared they would all drop to the floor as though in a dead faint. And that's exactly what they did. Presley, taking it in stride, autographed photos for each of the girls once the scene was completed and they had regained their composure

And what about the competition these stunning showgirls gave to Ann-Margaret? Well, this lovely redhead was able to hold her own even without benefit of the $50,000 tourmaline mink coat she wears in her "Appreciation" song-and-dance specialty in the picture.

Robert Doran is starred in the second feature, "The Star Fighters"

FAC Gets 'American In Paris'

"An American in Paris," the great Academy Award-winning musical will return to the Fine Arts Center Tuesday.

Anyone who might have missed this song and dance spectacle plus the many who would want to see it again, will thrill to the brilliant music of George Gershwin and the story and screen play by Alan Jay Lerner. The star talent, of course, includes Gene Kelly and Leslie Caron, Georges Guetary and Nina Foch, along with the inimitable Oscar Levant who proves his vast talent in such numbers as Gershwin's "Concerto in F."

The story concerns an ex-GI, Jerry Mulligan (Gene Kelly), who remains in Paris after the wer to eke out a precarious but happy existence in an attic on the Left Bank in the hope of some day becoming a world-famous painter. Complications in the form of two lovely females — a predatory but wealthy American (Nina Foch) and a poor but captivating French girl (Leslie Caron) — sidetrack the art career for a time.

The picture's charm, of course, is the colorful dances and memorable songs, among them: "Embraceable You," "S Wonderful," "I Got Rhythm," "Our Love is Here to Stay," and many more.

The spectacular "American in Paris" ballet, featuring nine different scenes each in the decor of a famous painter such as Van Gogh, Rousseau, Renoir, Utrillo or Lautrec, is considered to be one of the finest ever presented on screen.

Phi Beta Kappa Urbane, extroverted Bennett Cerf, panelist on "What's My Line" is a Columbia University Phi Beta Kappa graduate.

KEN BURRETT

Twirling Champ Will Make Farewell Appearance Here

Ken Burrett, Colorado Springs Youth Goodwill Ambassador will tour for the last times under the title of the present World Champion of World Twirling Association.

Ken is not defending the titles which he won in Ohio under the sponsorship of the Noon Optimist Club of Colorado Springs. Ken will tour Estes Park at the Rooftop Days July 30 - Aug. 2.

'Move Over' Moves to the Aircadia

20th Century-Fox's comedy of marital mix-ups, "Move Over, Darling," is set to open today at the Aircadia Theatre. The cast of popular stars is headed by the universally admired Doris Day, who is teamed for the second time with handsome James Garner. Polly Bergen forms the third side of the humorous triangle with Chuck Connors in a cameo star role.

The supporting cast boasts equally popular comedians, including Thelma Ritter, Fred Clark, Don Knotts and Elliott Reid. Miss Day's husband, Martin Melcher, teamed with Aaron Rosenberg to produce this CinemaScope, De Luxe color comedy, which was directed by Michael Gordon, who previously directed the successful "Pillow Talk" with Doris Day.

"Move Over, Darling" is a story about a man who marries a lovely young woman and arrives at his honeymoon hotel to Doris Day has the role of wife who had been declared legally dead since she disappeared five years earlier in a plane crash.

Doris Day has the roleofwife number one who reappears after being marooned on a South Pacific island for five years and causes not only consternation but embarrassment. James Garner, who gained fame as television's "Maverick" and turned successfully to comedy in "The Thrill of It All" with Miss Day, plays the husband caught with two wives ... in California and not in one of those countries where harems are legal.

Nancy Kwan is starred in the second feature, "Tamahine." He is to spend the four days in parades, grand entries, city tours, doing YMCA programs, and meeting city officials. Ken again will be under Optimist sponsorship.

Ken will make his last parade performance as the present World Champion with the Navy Band here in Colorado Springs at the Pikes Peak or Bust Parade.

Ken will become a past undefeated champion on Aug. 22 of this year. Ken broke all World Twirling Association records becoming the first boy to win solo, strutting, and drum major of the World. He is also the tops in designing of uniforms.

"It's been fun, exciting, offering traveling experience, and a chance to met people as mayors, governors, movie stars, and most any type of VIP you could ever want to see," Ken said when be announced his retirement.

Ken will make an appearance in the Colorado State Fair Parade and tour the state fair.

"When you win a World Championship you find yourself the center of attention but your life for the next year is an open book and really not much private life at all. You find yourself on tour during the school year, making appearances and moving across the nation the next morning and I'm thankful for every moment but I'm also glad it's at last almost over," Ken said.

Ken plans to teach and judge under the Snyder School of Music and World Twirling Association and then to attend a college under full scholarship.

Ken thanks his sponsors for the last years which are Noon and Breakfast, Optimist Clubs and Southgate Pianos and Organs of Colorado Springs.

'Long Ships' Now Showing At Sky-Vue

Adventure and excitement, lusty and brawling, are among the entertainment ingredients of "The Long Ships," at the Sky-Vue Theatre. This saga of the Vikings, in Technicolor and Technirama stars Richard Widmark, Sidney Poitier, Russ Tamblyn, Rosanna Schiaffino and Oscar Homolka, a superblychosen cast in performances that thunder across the screen.

"The Long Ships" is Poitier's first film since winning the Academy Award as best actor of the year, with his performance in "Lilies of the Field."

Rousing and spectacular, The Long Ships" is the story of a desperate voyage and bitter conflict, a search for legendary treasure on the part of the freebooting Vikings The treasure is the long-lost Golden Bell of St. James, known as the Mother of Voices. Reportedly as tall as three tall men and fashioned of solid gold looted from Islam by the earliest Crusaders, the bell is eagerly sought by the Norsemen in their long ships and by the Moslem people, led by their Sheikh Widmark leads the Vikings; Poitier, the Moors In his first costume role, completely divorced from the type of picture in which he has won so vast a reputation. Poitier is sheer delight as the powerful, ambitous and determined Moor. Widmark, in turn, is equally fine as the adventuring Norseman, a man as nimble with words and wits as he is with a sword. The clash between the two, as presented in "The Long Ships," is more than a battle of titans; it is a conflict between men who might have been friends and allies if it were not for their warring needs.

There are moments of extraordinary comedy sandwiched among the sequences of fierce combat and glowing beauty, extraordinary in that they are in perfect keeping with the film's might and pageantry and color.

There are moments of sheer horror, of blood-curding torture, of spectacular battle. And there is, throughout, a motion picture completely satisfying in its effectiveness.

Hawkins Gets Co-Star Role

British actor Jack Hawkins has been signed for a co-starring role in "Judith," starring Sophia Loren.

Daniel Mann, whose last film "Who's Been Sleeping In My Bed?" directs and Kurt Unger produces "Judith," now filming in Isreal.

'Dr. No.' Set For 8th St.

The first James Bond film addventure, "Dr. No" starts Sunday at the 8th St. Drive-in Theatre. James Bond the International Secret Service Agent is played by Sean Connery and is co-starred with Ursula Andress.

The second feature on the giant program, "The Great Escape" stars Steve McQueen and James Garner. "The Great Escape' is a faithful re-enactment of the greatest mass escape from a military prison in the annuals of warfare. It is the famed actual escape from Germany's maximum security camp the nortorious Staglag III.

Producing credits on Alfred Hitchcock's "Marnie," the Tippi' Hedren - Sean Connery starrer for Universal, will go to his newly incorporated Goeffrey-Stanley company. Goeffrey and Stanly are Hitchcock's pet white Sealyham terriers.

Sellers Back As Inspector In Peak Film

The world of Jacques Clouseau, as hilariously pictured in "A Shot in the Dark," now showing at the Peak Theatre through United Artists release has been compared to a night-mare version of Sherlock Holmes exploits or a James Bond adventure gone awry. This concept of the misfiring minion of the law was evolved by two of today's prominent practitioners of film fun: director-producer writer Blake Edwards and actor Peter Sellers.

First conceived for "The Pink Panther," in which Sellers star-red as Clouseau, this initial collaboration of talents proved so popular at the boxoffice that they decided to do it again. Both Edwards and Sellers are steeped in the lore of Mack Sennett, Charlie Chaplin, Laurel & Hardy, The Marx Brothers and Buster Keaton. Through Clouseau, they felt they had found the opportunity to work in his disaster-prone tradition of comedy.

When the Mirisch Corporation acquired motion picture rights to a comedy successful on stages both here and in England, Edwards and Sellers made a bid for it. It was, they said, a whacky enough plot for their bumbling hero. Clouseau. Where as on stage, "A Shot in the Dark" was confined to a judge's chambers, the screenplay which Edwards wrote with William Blatty - reams from the estate of a French millionaire to the sunlit acres of a nudist camp, with many stops for dalliance -- and murder along the

Even though it added about a quarter of a million dollars to the films cost, Blake Edwards decided to make it in Color by De Luxe and Panavision because the sumptuousness of the sets would be lost in black and white on a smaller screen.

Beautiful Elke Sommer, whom international audiences met in "The Prize" and "The Victors" stars with Sellers. Academy-award winning George Sanders and British actor Herbert Lorn co-star in the comedy based upon the plays by Harry Kurnitz and Marcel Achard. The score for the film, was penned by the Academy Award-winning Henry Mancini.

Nuts & Bolts Set to Open At Starlite

Actor - producer - director Tommy Noonan may not make the most expensive and -or spectacular motion pictures in the film capital; however it's a cinch bet that the youthful filmmaker has the cleanest array of leading ladies ever assembled under the same Hollywood production roof.

How does Tommy do it? To what ends will he go to bring about this ... plethora of purification in his glamour gals?

The truth is, by means of good old-fashioned soap and water—supplemented, occasionally with some devious concoction that happens to enter Tommy's devilish mind as he writes his movie scripts.

First, it was lovely Julie New mar taking a sexy shower bath in Tommy's first production, The Rookie," filmed in 1959 Next it was the international sex Queen, Jayne Mansfield, showing previously unexposed curves via a bubble bath in the 1963 comedy-hit, "Promises! Promises!" Now the prolific Mr. Noonan has reached the pinnacle of his craeer with his latest leading lady, blonde beauty Mamie Van Doren, in the Harlequin International Pictures production, "3 Nuts In Search Of A Bolt," opening at the Starlite Drive-in. Theatre.

In the madcap, frothy comedy, Mamie portarys a strip teaser, Saxie Symbol, who gets her kicks from bathing in beer—gallons and gallons of it. Laughed Mamie after the scene was filmed, "In reality, I don't even drink, and the beer fumes I inhaled very nearly had me 'stoned,'"

Michael Gough stars in the second feature, "The Black Zoo."

'Zulu' Opens Wednesday At Chief

Royal Natal National Park is one of the most beautiful natural wonders of the world. #### Molly Still Holds Forth At the Ute

Joy - filled, song - filled The Unsinkable Molly Brown," at the Ute Theatre, has been held for the fourth week and what may be the last week for this delightful color musical film.

Debbie Reynolds plays Colorado's own Molly Brown in the story of her incredible rise from poverty to riches. And she enjoyed every minute of starring in one of the years' most outstanding and successful films, even though she was knocked down, trampled, pummeled pinched and sat on, along with dancing for hours during its filming.

Debbie's co - star is Harve Presnell, as "Leadville Johnny" Brown, the role he created in the successful Broadway production of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown." Johnny Brown was the discoverer of "The Little Johnny" mine, one of the biggest and most fabulous gold mines in the history of Colorado which produced over twenty million dollars worth of the precious metal.

Meredith "Music Man" Wilson, as the crowning achievement of a fruitful career, composed the music for "The Unsinkable Molly Brown." chael Caine, "Zulu" is the first joint venture of director Cy Endfield and star Stanley Baker, who co-produced the spectacular film.

Made at the actual sites of the adventure, using actual Zulu natives to portray their ancestors, Baker and Endfield managed to record not only the spectacle of this exciting true story, but the emotional impact as well.

In the shadow of the picturesque Drakensberg Mountains, soaring 10,000 feet above sea level, the Diamond Films Ltd. company set up shop, completely recreating the mission station at Rorke's Drift ... including its hospital, church, stores, stables and cattle kraal — all of which figured prominently in the bloody battle.

In the course of reconstructing Rorke's Drift, they discovered the Tugela River was not flowing as strongly as it had 84 years before, and decided to increase its force by altering its course and damming it. this required a battery of bull dozers and a vast force of native laborers to shift some 400 tons of earth. The river subsequently surged beneath a floating bridge past "Rorke's Drift," as it had in 1879. When filming was completed, however, the company was obliged to put the 400 tons of earth back where they had found it. remove the dam, and return the river to its original course . . .

The Zulu village was also created on location, but most ambitious of all were the three up-to-date villages which will never be seen on screen: living quarters for cast and crew, stores and "mess" facilities — and of course the administration blocks.

The transportation fleet consisted of three - ton trucks, station wagons, jeeps, helicopters and two souped up light wagons which daily sped 250 miles to the airport with the "rushes," which were processed in London laboratories.

Wayne Signs For Oater

John Wayne has been signed by Hal Wallis for a starring role in "The Sons of Katie Elder," the producer's forthcoming big-budget, all-star western for Paramount release.

Wallis, now in London, finalfzed the deal with Wayne in Honolulu where the actor is playing one of the top roles in Otto Preminger's "In Harm's

In "The Sons of Katie Elder," Wayne plays the eldest of four brothers who are reunited after years of separation at the grave of their mother and who, subsequently, join together to build a monument of good deeds to her memory to atone for their wrongs.

John Wayne's new association brings the star and Wallis together for the first time. It also marks the first western to be produced by Wallis since "Gunfight At The OK Corral," no of his higgest hox-affice successes for Paramount.

"The Sons Of Katie Elder" is based on an original story by William Wright with a screenplay by Allan Weiss.

HITCHCOCK THRILLER - Sean Connery attempts to probe through the murky past that he believes holds the key to the problems confronting his bride, "Tippi" Hedren, in the new Alfred Hitchcock thriller, "Marnie" which starts Friday at the Cooper Theatre.

Marnie Will Open Friday At Cooper

Behind the disarmingly relaxed facade presented by Alfred Hitchcock, who never once has been known to raise his voice on a sound stage, lies a hair - trigger quick inventive genius who considers his pictures as good as done once his elaborately detailed scripts are completed.

Scrutinize the screenplay of 'Marnie," a suspenseful sex mystery starring 'Tippi' Hedren and Sean Connery, and in the 201 - page scenario - longer than the average - you'll find the nearest thing to a complete production blueprint ever prepared in Hollywood The Universal release, in Technicolor, opens Friday at the Cooper Theatre.

Examine the pages closely and you'll find the reason for the voluminous script Possibly a fifth or more of the contents is devoted to an exquisitely detailed description of every camera move and angle throughout the entire story. This is the work of Hitchcock himself, superimposed upon the tale.

Never once during the filming of a picture has Hitchcock been known to look through the camera to find the proper composition for a scene. He has no need. This is all part of the preliminary preparation - the visual concept with which he endows each of his motion picture dramas.

It is sometimes forgotten that Hitchcock launched his cinematic career as an art director, an experience he considers invaluable in all that he has since achieved.

Hitchcock reports that "Marnie," the story of a compulsive thief, is in the tradition of his 'Rebecca' and 'Notorious," being for the most part a detailed character study enlivened by mood, movement and psychological overtones

Hitchcock, for whom "Marnie" represents his 49th screen project, recently was dubbed by French critics as the father of their much - vaunted New Wave. No less a Gallic great than Francois Truffaut, who mentored the "The 400 Blows," recently took a year off from his directorial chores to write a definitive book on the work of the London - born film mak-

The director reports he has no intention of broadening his film - making palette beyond the areas in which he has already ventured.

"I feel I have achieved a certain style," he elaborates "I see no reason to reach out in other avenues. I am principally oncerned with human drama, which in itself offers unlimited comfortable as that of the personal appearance. And Liberace finds his return engagement at the Broadmoor International Theatre Monday through August 2 especially gratifying as it was the response to his show here last year that brought about his immediate return.

He shares a preference for personal appearances with Judy Garland, Danny Kaye and Marlene Dietrich and others of that circle of entertainment greats to which his talents have gained him admittance.

Liberace's current engagement, which opens Monday and runs through the following Sunday, makes full use of his many talents, promising surprises as well as reprises of pleasant musical memories, presented with the spectacular flair that is Liberace's forte.

The piano virtuoso, who made his concert debut at 11 and performed with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at 16, hopes to return to television soon. But it is unlikely that such a return would ever keep him away from the concert stage. In the past three years away from the medium which first brought him to the attention of a decade of devoted fans, he has traveled extensively 11 months of each year, extending the boundries of his popularity to include the world. WORLD'S FAIR ROAD TOUR

for a long tour next winter on behalf of the World's Fair.

Major industrial exhibitors are expected to collaborate in underwriting the production which would tour 20 to 30 cities after the present fair season ends in October. Included in the display are to be samples of attractions in the exposition so that, according to a spokesman, "if people missed the fair this year they will want to see it next."

SHIRLEY HARMER

Canadian Songbird Joins Liberace for Show Here

Lovely Canadian songbird Shirley Harmer will have a featured spot in the Liberace show coming to the Broadmoor International Theatre. Monday. The famed pianist-entertainer, whose show broke all records here last year, will present a fun-packed evening in his review this year. The show is scheduled to run nightly through Aug.

Miss Harmer is recognized as one of the most exciting young personalities in Show Business today. Her talents as a singer have won an impressive list of engagements on radio, television and in night clubs both in this country and in her native Can-

She has performed on at least 50 network television shows and headlined at least ten of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's TV "Parade" shows. Her TV experience also include the U. S. network series of the George Gobel Show, appearances on the Dave Garroway Show, three seasons on CBC-TV's "Showtime" and 12 weeks on her own summer series "A Summer Night." She has also appeared regularly on the one hour specials of comics Wayne and Schuster in Canada. These comedians are familiar to U.S. audiences through appearances on the Ed Sullivan Show.

Liberace's new show will include an all new wardrobe. His flamboyant mode of dress plays a great part in the evening's entertainment and audiences have come to expect dazzling changes from one glittering costume to another. Liberace says he may not be the "best dressed" but does claim to be the "most dressed" entertainer in show business.

Tickets are available at the International Theatre boxoffice for the Liberace Show as well as for Ken Murray and his fabulous "Hollywood Home Movies" which will be tonight. The boxoffice is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily except on show nights when it remains open until 10 p.m.

Series Gets New Producer

Nat Perrin has been appointed producer of "The Addams Family" television series, now being readied for fall release on ABC-TV.

The program will be seen Fridays starting Sept. 18.

Perrin will succeed produserdirector Ralph Levy, who was released by Filmways as producer-director of the series to assume his previously announced commitment to direct Arwin Productions' Deris Day starrer, "Do Not Disturb," which begins pre-production at 20th Century-Fox this week. Levy's deal with Filmways had been predicted on his release from the series when his services for pre-production duties on the Doris Day film were required.

David Levy, creator of "The Addams Family" series, continues in his post as executive producer of the production unit.

Derby to End In September

San Diego's 18th Annual Yellewtail Sportfishing Derby, which kicked off March 28, will continue through Sept. 25.

Annually more than 100,000 sportsmen from all parts of the country compete in the Derby, plus thousands more local rodand-reelers.

A fleet of 50 boats operate daily from San Diego sportfishing piers. Anyone may enter Derby competition by booking passage on an open party boat, no registration fees required.

The 26-week Derby is divided into three periods, capped, in each instance, by a fishoff with anglers competing for automobiles, freezers and televisions.

Two other major fishing derbies are also underway in the San Diego area including the Oceanside Sportfishing Derby and the annual Mission Bay Sportfishing Derby. Superb deepsea fishing affords fishermen unlimited opportunity in the San Diego area.

LeFevre's Book Described 'Monumental' by Reviewer

NATURE OF MAN AND HIS GOVERNMENT - By Robert LeFevre - Caxton - $1. - Reviewed by Howard Kessler -In "The Nature of Man and His Government" writer-lecturer Robert LeFevre dissects government in its various manifestations from the beginning of The impact of this little book sneaks up on the reader. The stark directness of the writing may at first blind him to its depth of understanding, and to the ultimate implications of this philosophic interpretation of the nature of government. LeFevre is President of Freedom School in Colorado, and editor of the Colorado Springs Gazette Telegraph, one of a chain of 14 Freedom Newspapers in the United States. He is an ardent spokesman for freedom, and his book will prove of vital interest to every aroused patriot who wonders why the right wing can't get together As Rose Wilder Lane writes in her introduction: "I think you have not read its like before. If it jolts you, that's good: these are the times when minds need waking up." This paperback book, published by Caxton Printers, of Caldwell, Idaho, costs just $1.00, and we guarantee it will give you food for thought.

ECONOMY AND MAN By Dr. Murray N. STATE Rothbard - Pine Tree Press -75 cents - Reviewed by Howard The most thought-Kessler provoking short work on money management we have ever read is a new one by Dr. Murray N. Rothbard, the author of the monumental two-volume "Man, Economy, and State." This little paperback book is called "What Has Government Done to our Money?" and we challenge you to name any more stimulating exposition of a tangled and rather confused subject. Dr. Rothbard traces the history of money entertainingly, and then asks the question: "Can money be organized under the freedom principle?" His own view is that it can indeed. His conclusion is thus stated: "Government meddling with money has not only brought untold tyranny into the world: it has also brought chaos and not order. It has fragmented the peaceful, productive world market, and shattered it into a thousand pieces, with trade and investment hobbled and hampered by myriad restrictions, controls, artificial rates, currency breakdowns, etc. It has helped bring about wars, by transforming a world of peaceful intercourse into a jungle of warring currency blocks. In short, we find that coercion, in money as in other matters, brings, not order, but conflict and chaos." To read this fascinating story of government money mismanagement, send 75 cents to the Pine Tree Press, Box 165, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

CZECH NATIONALISM: STUDY OF THE NATIONAL THEATRE MOVEMENT, - 18-45-83 — By Stanley Buchol2 Kimball - University of Illinois Press - $5.00 - Reviewed by R. B. Murray - The efforts of the Czechoslovak people to gain their independence extended through the larger part of a century. During the first phases of these efforts in the early 1800's, police state domination of the Czech people did not permit a resort to arms. During this period the Czech leaders took steps designed to preserve the Czech tongue, art and culture. Thus there arose a country-wide effort to build a National Theatre. Regarded as a non-political movement, they were permitted to solicit funds to publicize the Czech nation and cultural entity and to form committees to activate the people and remind them of their heritage.

In many ways the Theatre became the center of the Czech freedom movement. When the foundation stone for the Theatre was laid in 1868. Prague was crowded with 80,000 people and representatives from Central and Southern Europe utilized the occasion to hold the Slav Congress of 1868.

When the Theatre finally got under way in 1883 it was a monument to Czech art and culture and in many ways a sign of encouragement to all Slav peo-

This book is a fine, well documented and excellently written work on the role of the National Theatre in the developing nationalism of the Czech people during the period specified. It is Volume 54 in the Illinois Studies In the Social Sciences. The author, Prof. Stanley Bucholz Kimball, is Professor of History at Southern Illinois University. He has added a fine work to this set and probably the first study of this subject done for American readers.

The National Theatre is still a vital part of Czech life. Today in Czechoslovakia there are 76 theatres. 64 traveling companies and 8,000 amateur groups in addition to 3,500 movie houses and television.

Some of the work to be displayed will be a mural, "Mexican Sunset"; and two abstracts in pastels, the "Elephant," recently shown at the Boca Raton Gallery in Boca Raton, Fla. and the "Girl I Used to Know."

A painting that Niemczyk calls the "New England Water-front," previously on display at Shrimes Gallery in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, was acclaimed by Mr. Shrimes as "the best water painting I have seen in a long time," and will also be shown at the Contemporary Gallery and Art Shop.

Four paintings that Neimczyk has completed since being assigned at Ft. Carson will complete the paintings to be displayed.

Of the eleven paintings that he has sold, he received the greatest reward for an abstract, "Eternity," for which he was paid $450.

A 21 year old native of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Pfc. Niemczyk became interested in commercial art after taking it as a major course in high school. He has painted professionally for about four years.

La Traviata Set Today At Boulder

BOULDER, Colo. — Three graduate students at the University of Colorado will bring a weaith of musical experience to the three leading roles in "La Traviata" during the opera's performances which closes today.

The Verdi opera, sung in English translation, will be staged in Macky Auditorium at 8 p.m. as part of the University's summer Creative Arts Program.

Soprano Alexandra Hinckley, who received her bachelor's degree in music from CU in 1963, will sing the role of Violetta Valery, the tragic heroine of the opera. Miss Hinckley, sang the leading feminine role in last summer's "Rigoletto" and has returned for graduate work after a year's private study with Madame Ruth Chamlee in Los Angeles.

Miss Hinckley also worked with Jan Popper at the UCLA Opera Workshop, where she sang roles in "The Marriage of Figaro" and "Der Rosenkavalier." At CU she has presented recitals, sung major parts in a number of oratorios and had leading opera roles in "Susanna," "Dido and Aeneas," "The Rape of Lucretia" and "Falstaff" Last year she won second place in the Denver Regional Metropolitan Opera Auditions.

Tenor Joseph Truncale, Alfred to Miss Hinckley's Violetta, made his debut as winner of the 1956 Experimental Opera of America Auditions in New Orleans, singing in the premier performance of "Gianni Schicci," He sang with the Houston Grand Opera Association under past two years was guest artist with the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony and the Shreveport Symphony in performances of Arthur Honegger's "Joan of Arc at the Stake."

to see who's who and what's what in fine arts, opera, drama, dance, symphony and concerts.

Largest of the American Festivals is the Long Island Festival of the Arts. Now in its second season., it has already convinced many critics that its dream of being one of the major arts festivals of the world is no idle one.

For a long time, Long Island has been known as the 'bedroom' of New York, a place where Manhattan workers went home to sleep. For a long time, too, Long Island has been vastly overshadowed by the cultural activities of its mighty neighbor.

All of this began to change a few years ago when a group of far-seeing Long Island residents decided to do something about the cultural "drought" in their communities. That "something" developed into the Long Island Arts Festival.

Last year, for the first time, the Festival opened its door. Or. more accurately, its flaps, for events take place in a tent on the beautiful C W. Post estate in Old Brookville, now C. W Post College. For its presentation of the New York City Ballet, of "Madame Butterfly" and the Verdi Requiem it drew the delighted comments of the

This year the tent will be new and bigger than last year. In fact, it will be the biggest tent in the United States - and the program will be bigger, too.

Among the events that will occur during the next two months are performances of "The Marriage of Figaro" and Tosca", the debut in the Western Hemisphere of the famed century-old "Filaka's Prague Pantomime Theatre", gram by the Royal Winnipeg Ballet of Canada and a series of concerts by the Philadelphia Orchestra with Eugene Ormandy conducting. Participating artists include Eleanor Steber Phyllis Curtin and Carlos Mon-

Art Guild to Hold Show in Ice Rink

More Than 50 Artists Will Exhibit in Show

The Colorado Springs Art Guild's 20th Annual Outdoor Art and Craft Show will be held at a new site on the Colorado College Campus grounds this year.

For the past three years it has been held on the patio and along the sidewalk of Rastall Center. This year the show is moving down the block to the spacious new College ice rink which is just west of Rastall Center and located in the 0 hundred block of West Cashe La Poundre St. The huge ice rink will give the exhibiting artists and the viewing public about five times more space than they previously had.

The Outdoor Art Show is scheduled to begin Wednesday, and will run through Sunday, August 2. Hours are from 5:30 to 10 p.m. daily and from 3:30 to 10 p.m. on Sunday.

Colorado College has loaned the use of some part of its campus grounds to the Guild for their annual outdoor art shows for many years but this site at their new ice rink is the best yet. The ice rink is open on three sides and with a roof will make this somewhat an "indoor-outdoor" type of show and

Colorado Day Set Aug. 1 in Central City

Colorado Day this year in Central City will be held August 1, according to the Central City Opera House Association.

To begin with readings of prize essays at Williams. Stables at 10:30 a.m., events throughout the day will also include judging and awarding of prizes for the best costumes, a luncheon in the Eureka Room of the Teller House at 12:30 and a movie on early Central City.

Tickets for the luncheon may be obtained through the Central City Opera House Association at 200 West Fourteenth Avenue. Denver, or by calling MA. 3-7167. The luncheon price is $3.50.

As in past Colorado Days, visitors are asked to come in 1864 costumes

Colorado Day is held in tribute to events and personalities prominent in the history of the state. also provides the long wishedfor shelter from those sudden Colorado summer showers which have dampened the paintings and spirits of the artists in past outdoor shows.

Each year much new and fresh art works are shown. The arts and crafts exhibited and for sale are of good variety. Original works of art are offered for sale at reasonable prices. Art lovers will find the realistic non-objective and abstract in many media.

Included in the sales exhibition will be the ever popular oils, watercolors, sketches, prints, pastels, ceramics and wheel-thrown pottery, sculpture, weaving as well as mosaics, painted tiles, mineral rock paintings, jewelery, on-the-spot portrait sketches, and a watercolor technique portrait demonstration.

This year's outdoor art show promises to be as big or bigger than last year's About 55 artists exhibited last year and as of July 20th, 53 artist were entered into this year's show.

The show will present work by local, state and out-of-state artists. Some will be exhibiting for the first time and others have exhibited many times through the years.

An outdoor show is a fun thing too, something which the whole family can enjoy.

There is no admission charge for attending the art show being given free to the public as a cultural event. Art lovers, residents and tourists are invited to bring the family and friends and to spend an evening or two browsing around the exhibitions and visiting with the artists.

Souvenir programs listing artist and studio will be available free of charge from the exhibiting artists.

Auditions Set For Symphony

Auditions for local musicians to fill several openings in the string sections of the Colorado Springs Symphony Orchestra will be held July 31.

Players with the necessary training and orchestral experience interested in the symphony should call 633-1602 for an appointment.

Series Adds Top Singer

Caterina Valente, internationally-popular singing stylist, has been signed to star with Carol Burnett and Bob Newhart in the new hour-long revue series "The Entertainers," which makes its debut Friday, Sept. 25 on the CBS Television Network.

Tessie O'Shea, the effervescent British entertainer who took Broadway by storm when she appeared in Noel Coward's "The Girl Who Came To Supper" last season, will be a regularly featured performer in the series.

As previously announced, the widely-read columnist, Art Buch-wald, also has been signed as a regular cast member.

Paris-born Miss Valente sings in 11 languages and has recorded a number of best-selling records in Europe. She has appeared in this country on such television specials as "The Bing Crosby Show" and "The Texaco Star Parade" on the CBS Television Network and on "The Ed Sullivan Show," "The Garry Moore Show," "Hollywood Palace" and "The Perry Como Show." Miss Valente has also performed at the Persian Room of New York's Hotel Plaza and at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas.

He'll Act In Own Play

NEW YORK (AP) - Fredd Wayne, a veteran of 200 TV roles, is resuming stage work in dual capacity.

As an actor, he is appearing in "No Sometime Thing," a play by Anthony Terploff about Dylan Thomas, being presented at Adelphi College in Garden City, N.Y., in mid-August. Concurrently he is preparing to appear in his own two-character drama, "Benjamin Franklin, Citizen," that is scheduled for cross-country tour later. He prepared the script in collaboration with Yale Prof. Leonard Laba editor of "The Franklin Papers."

A Gal in a Poke Can Beat the Sun

These two young misses are wearing bonnets for "town and country" attire. Valerie Rixon, left, wears a "calash" of green silk that was fashionable town headgear of the 1850s, and Sharon Hammock wears a cotton poke bonnet favored by the country women. Cuartor Dorothy Smith of the Pioneers Museum isn't certain which came first, the calash hat or the calash carriage, but either way the hat folds down like an accordian as did the carriage's hood, a forerunner to today's convertible. The hat was worn squarely on top of the head. This was a gift to the museum from the family of Dr. Loud who was the first professor of astronomy and mathematics at Colo-in the law and the same of the section of the section of the section of rado College. Sharon's green and white cotton poke bonnet was a gift from Margaretta Boas, who was the librarian here for many years at the main library. Handmade, the bonnet had a deep ruffle at back that gathered onto the bonnet proper which was made in layers of gathered ruffles.

POKE BONNETS COMING BACK?

Granma's Favorite May Be The Newest 'Fashion Fad' For Gals Out in the Sun

MARGUERITE MITCHELL
Photos By STAN PAYNE

IF ONE PATTERN MAKER has its way, we can expect to see a revival of the poke bonnet as top summer fashion wear in 1965.

The bonnet is included in an outfit of a two - piece sunsuit (not as brief as the bikini but skimpy enough to allow for a good suntan), and a wisp of a pinafore that can be worn hip length or extend downward to almost any desired length.

This reproduction of a 'period' piece may be slow to catch on, but designers predict that it will gain favor with many women who want to protect their skins from the drying rays of the Sun.

As a sun shade for gardening, bonnets are unbeatable since they frame the face and the back ruffle protects the neck, thus shielding milady's delicate skin from harmful ultra-violet rays.

Besides being serviceable, bonnets lend the complete feminine look to women to relish their roles as the second sex. They like the romantic portrait look bonnets give them, and why not? Their enduring elegance contributes to the flawlessly groomed look desired by so many women who would rather not resemble a tugboat annie with a floppy straw topping off her gardening gear.

Simplicity may be the touchstone of the poke bonnet, but sew one up in a rich fabric polished with margins of silk, and you'll step into summer's spotlight in high style.

The bonnet can be made in a variety of fabrics, such as ging-ham checks or plaids, calicos or sprigged cottons, or in the more dramatic and expensive fabrics currently in local yard goods departments.

Bonnets were fashionable wear for women in past centuries, but in later years were worn chiefly by children and babies. They're still in style, however, in many sections of the country for adult wear, notably in the Pennsylvania Dutch regions where Amish women, young and old, claim poke bonnets as their own.

A century ago, pioneer women always had a sparkling clean and stiffly starched bonnet to don when the buggy was hitched up for the Saturday trip into town

Many such headgear matched the ladies' gowns, for if they had a yard or so of material left over, a bonnet was whipped up to compliment their costumes. With the addition of a bouquet of false flowers or a cluster or ribbon bows, the bonnet went into high gear as a fashionable topping.

Patterns, as we know them today, were not available to the women of the 19th century — the more adept simply looked at a gown or hat in Godey's Ladies Book and using newspapers or brown wrapping paper, cut their own. Occasionally one finds such frayed pattern pieces, tightly rolled and tied with string, when searching through old trunks in family attics.

Fashion designers find inspiration for new creations in all manner of places, museums being noteworthy sites of clothing styles for study. The Pioneers Museum here is no exception.

Miss Dorothy Smith, the museum's curator, is always generous with her time and will take great delight in unlocking cupboards and cabinets to show off some of the attire worn by early settlers of the region. All the bonnets with this article may be seen at the museum.

As Miss Smith points out, they are old and must be handled with extreme care, for the delicate fabrics are not lasting. Several were handmade such as the pale tan silk poke bonnet Sharon wears on this page.

"The women didn't waste anything," Miss Smith noted about this bonnet, and turning it inside out, showed three different fabrics used for the lining. "But," she added, "the part that showed was always the best."

The part that shows about Sharon's face is pure off-white

This black silk bonnet, lined to add body to the portion that frames the face of blue-eyed blonde Valerie, was once in the collection on view in the El Paso County Courthouse. It dates from the turn-of-the-century and was not for casual wear because of the richness of the fabric. It was given to the museum by Josephine Troff of Denver.

This handmade poke bonnet was sewed in a quilted design. A paisley fabric was used to line the back pouff portion, with a tiny foulard print used almost to the edge, and off-white silk used "for show" to frame the face. Made of pale tan silk, the bonnet is accented with green ribbon ties. Sharon wears this gift to the museum from Josephine Trotet of Denver.

COLORADO SPRINGS KENNEL CLUB NOTES

The following are excerpts from this paper entitled "Picture Your Dog." If you are like most people your dog is a very important member of your household so his picture belongs among the snapshots of the rest of your family.

Taking pictures of pets is very much like photographing children - both are excellent subjects for humor or pathos but neither child nor pet will hold a pose for any length of time. So it is best to choose your setting, whether indoors or outdoors and arrange your lighting and props BEFORE you bring your canine subject to the scene.

The best dog photographs light. Early in the morning or late in the afternoon, shadow area will be held at a minimum. In the middle of the day a bright overhead sun produces sharp contrasts and heavy shad-

Begin by looking for a sunny spot where you have a simple background, one that will not take attention away from your subject and a background color that will contrast well with your dog. Care must be taken not to place a spotted or roan dog against a dappled background, as it will blend with it. Light colored dogs show well against a dark background and black or dark coated dogs stand out against a light color. If the pet is to be posed with children, have them wear colors that will contrast with the dog's coat and color and, of course, give the dog's coat a good brushing so he will look his

There's nothing that makes a less cluttered background than the sky and dogs posed sitting atop a stone wall or on a rise of ground where they stand out against the sky. This gives a pleasing naturalness to the background and makes the subject important.

When the location is selected the next thing to do is pick a good camera angle. Right here is where many people go wrong, by standing up and shooting down at the dog. This is bad because it makes the dog look smaller than he is and reduces his importance in the picture. The best angle is about at the dog's eye level or low-

ABC Gets TV Bowl Game

The American Broadcasting Company has secured rights for three years to telecast the annual Hula Bowl from Honolulu, Hawaii.

The 19th annual football game, which stars the year's greatest players in a North versus South clash, will be played at Honolulu Stadium Friday night, Jan. 8, 1965. A video-tape of the game will be rushed by jet to California and played the very next day on "ABC's Wide World of Sports," Saturday, Forty-eight college senior all stars are annually tapped to play in the game which last year saw the North take a thrilling one-touchdown victory over the South, 20-13. In that game, played last Jan. 4. quarterback Pete Liske of Penn State was named the most valuable player.

Last year's Hula Bowl had more All-Americans and conference stars than any other post-season game in the country. The 48 players represented 31 collages and universities from coast to coast. Twentynine were captains of their respective teams.

Composer to Receive Aspen Award; Witness Production of His Opera

Benjamin Britten, distinguished English composer, is scheduled to arrive in Aspen in time for the performance of his opera, "Albert Herring," which the Aspen Music School Opera Workshop is presenting on July 31, Aug. 1 and Aug. 2

The performances are scheduled for 8 30 pm each day in the Wheeler Opera House.

Britten will receive the Aspen Award which the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies will bestow upon him Friday.

Britten, a prolific composer in all musical forms - for piano, organ, chamber groups, choral works, opera, for movies and the theater, for radio and television - based the production on a short story by de Maupassant, "Le Rosier de Madame Husson." The opera, except for act endings, changes scenes without interruption so that the multi - screen projection process used in previous producions in Aspen will again be used for the "Albert Herring"

The setting for the Aspen production is the Wheeler Opera House built in 1889 and restored to its original splendor in 1960 as a gift from local architect Herbert Bayer and his wife. Its red plush seats and crystal chandeliers are reminders of bygone wealth in this old silvermining town when the Metropolitan Opera trod its boards and visitors arrived via five railroads.

Dr. Elmer Nagy, Production Director of the Opera Department, created the multi-screen process which is used in opera houses throughout this country and also abroad. He is the head of the opera department at the University of Hartford where this work was presented in 1963. Wolfgang Vacano of the opera department at Indiana University is musical director for the Aspen production.

Over The Coffee Cup

We were thinking the other day about the good old days. and we, by gosh, are barely old pough to remember when mickers were still in vogue. KEN MURRAY and his home novies of the early days of Hollywood got us to thinking bout our "old" days. We supose that by the time we have grandchildren bouncing on our nees they really will be old days, but right now, as recent as they are, they seem to be getting older and older.

For instance we can remember way back, in those "olden times" when you could invade a candy store with 5 cents and come out with enough penny candy to feed half the kids on the block and still have enough left over to ruin your own supper; or you could really splurge and buy a nickel candy bar (you know, the ones that sell for twice as much today).

And in those ancient days, they were things like 3 - cent ice cream cones, the big double-dip nickel ones and the gigantic, delectable 10 cent ones that you had to carry as if you were walking a tightrope. Ah, yes, those ancient days of yore.

Why, if we try real hard, we can remember when 10 cents would take you to the neighborhood movie theatre where you could sit in the dark for hours watching four features. three serials, five cartoons AND the March of Time and Mom had the whole day free for only a dime.

If we really strain our creaking, musty memory - and kids today still stare wide - eyed when you mention it - we can remember chasing the ice wagon down the street, with the borse stopping at the proper horses and feeling like the stopping at Dillinger when we got away with a chunk of ice to suck on in the summer heat. And the junk man and his horse and wagon. We can't forget him. He bought the scraps and junk we spent weeks collecting and we were kings of the block with his quarter in our pockets.

The good old days, yes sir. Remember those bubble gum machines which were actually confectionery slot machines in disguise? They were the ones you stuck a penny in, closed your eyes, crossed your fingers, promised that if it delivered you'd never sass your mother again, wished with all your might and twisted the little key. If you were lucky. when you opened your eyes. there was a little yellow chewgum ball ringed with two red stripes. It was an occasion the little chewing gumball shouting and dancing for was worth fice cents in merchandise or cash. If you didn't get the big one, you had a chance for the little speckled ball that returned two cents to the lucky player. And if you got neither, you still had a

Speaking of the two centses -we can remember way back when a storekeeper didn't look at you as if you were a burn when you brought in a dusty pop bottle you had scrounged from somewhere or other a pop bottle he knew you didn't purchase there - and demand two cents in cash or merchan-

Ike Reveals Thoughts About His Nomination

Gen. Dwight D Eisenhower, admitting he doesn't understand politicians, reached back to his own experiences of 17 years ago to find words of advice to the man nominated for President by the Republican National Convention.

"This is a very serious thing you're undertaking." he said on the ABC Television Network. "You'll have to sit with yourself and your God and say, "What do I do now" - and then you will have to come up with a decision and act like you're absolutely sure.

Reminiscing about the night in 1952 when he was nominated, the former President told ABC Vice President James C. Hagerty and ABC-News' William H. Lawrence that after an exhausting week of meeting with delegates "from eight in the morning to eleven or twelve at night" me night of the nomination, "finally they were out." He recalled that he sat down exhausted, leaned his chair back against the wall, and watched as his brothers and friends totaled the delegate count in notebooks as the delegations were polled. "This bored me to pieces," the General said.

"I did everything. I started to draw little pictures. I looked out the window." He also went to Mrs. Eisenhower's room every few minutes, he said, because she had a painful tooth-

He knew 603 votes were needed for nomination. When the vote reached 595 - 600, "they came rushing all over the room, I was really baffled. I didn't know about Minnesota." (It had been agreed that when the nomination appeared certain, Minnesota would switch its votes to put Eisenhower over the top.)

The General recounted how he went to Mrs. Eisenhower's room 'Now we're in it to our necks. We're going to have to work like dogs," he told her.

The General's first thoughts were to visit Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio whom he had just defeated for the nomination. Mrs. Eisenhower agreed, although there was a "surprise in the other room.

He'd been a General so long. Gen. Eisenhower said, that he had to ask someone else to call Sen. Taft. "I didn't even know how to dial." When he reached Taft by phone, Sen. Taft's voice showed a little amazement."

Going across the street to Sen. Taft's botel, the General understood for the first time what happens to a man who becomes a nominee. "I'm sure the crowd was carrying me across the street. I didn't even have my feet on the ground. I certainly felt no feeling of elation. I was starting a hard job.

Sen. Taft first asked if his sons could come in to have a picture taken. "The faces of everybody were much better. They liked the fact that I went over to see him."

The afternoon was devoted to deciding on a new National Chairman, deciding on a Vice President, and writing an acceptance speech to be delivered that evening. The general and several aides wrote the speech "fitting the paragraphs togeth-

With McCarthyism still on the scene, Gen. Eisenhower said, "I wanted someone who had a reputation as an alert person in the business of Communism without being an extremist.

"I put his name on the top" of a list given to the National Committee. Also on the list, the former President said, were Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana. Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota, Gov. Arthur Langley of Washington, Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado - and one other he couldn't recall. Herbert Brownell and James Hagerty took the list to the National Committee. and telephoned the General that they agreed unanimously on Nixon.

"I was so tired (after the convention)," he said, "Do you know - I was talking about this with Mrs. Eisenhower - we

Ozarks to Draw Tourists To Grass Roots Folk Art

FOLK ART AT GRASS ROOTS - Now and then we have commented on some of the trends of folk art, and what may become of the folk singing craze which has swept the country the past few years. One trend seems fairly clearly established, namely that of the "gospel singers," who have run the gospel song into the ground after "commercializing" it in night clubs. complete with artificial wings and white costumes.

"Fokl singers," of the Madison Avenue and Hollywood versions, seem to be holding their ground, on television and on the state, increasing the tempo of commercialization which has transformed the interesting hootennanies, for instance, into glorified, hysterically jazzed up versions, and sometimes parodies, of the essentially intimate spirit of folk singers and folk music, following the same road which "country" music did.

Folk singer Jimmy Driftwood seems to feel the same way as many other "purists" about folk singing. The only difference is that he's a kind of practical guy, and he's gone and done something about it.

What got him to thinking about the whole thing was when, he returned to his home town of Mountain View, Ark.. for a rest, and to catch a breath of the pure Ozark air. He was already dismayed by the trend of "commercialization" of folk music. By this we don't mean that folk singers finally were beginning to make big money, but that they sold out to the big-time promoters, to whom it makes little difference whether the artists play the Flight of the Bumble Bee, Gospel Music, or Jazz. just so that the mass audience is "impressed."

The promoters seem to think that the only way to keep the thing going is to jazz it up more and more, until it is run into the ground - and then they look around for another gimmick.

Jimmy, of course, knows the business from the inside. By commercialization he means that "folk songs" performed in the big-time entertainment trade are too often songs written by barefoot boys who never wandered far from the plush, thick, carpeting of their Manhattan apartments.

Not that Jimmy condemns the carpet boys. After all, they have to make a living, too. "There's nothing wrong with commer folk music as such," says Driftwood, "but, it just isn't the real thing."

And, thereby hangs a tale which may grant a new lease of life to Jimmy's home town of Mountain View, Ark., in the Ozark foothills. Mountain View is the county seat, but it has a population of only 863 persons, and Stone County has only 6,200 people, mostly farmers. retired persons and welfare clients. It was dying.

Jimmy quickly figured out the reason. The young folks set out for the big city and new opportunities. Moreover, he found his town has no industry and little chance of getting any because it can't promise raw materials, trained labor ro proximity to markets.

That's when Jimmy Driftwood, and a few other townfolk hit on an idea which may not only preserve their community, but even put it back on its feet - not through "industry" as such, but through the industry which is one of the biggest in the country - tourism.

Jimmy, and others like him. have decided that if Mountain View cannot go to the market. it will bring the market to Mountain View. The plan is rather unique, and may sound far-fetched, but Jimmy and his likes are determined that it will succeed - and succeed it well may, for it is based on the premise that scenery is not sufficient for tourists - they want scenery, allright, but they would welcome something more.

And that's how the idea came about, through Jimmy's influence. The Mountain View folks have decided to offer to the American traveling public a place where the art of folk singing and folk culture will be preserved and nurtured - not, of course, in the style of big-time Hollywood country dances but as close to the grass-roots as possible Therefore, Jimmy thinks it of great importance that this new folk song and folk art revival must start not as importations from the thickcarpeted apartments of New York of Hollywood song arrangers.

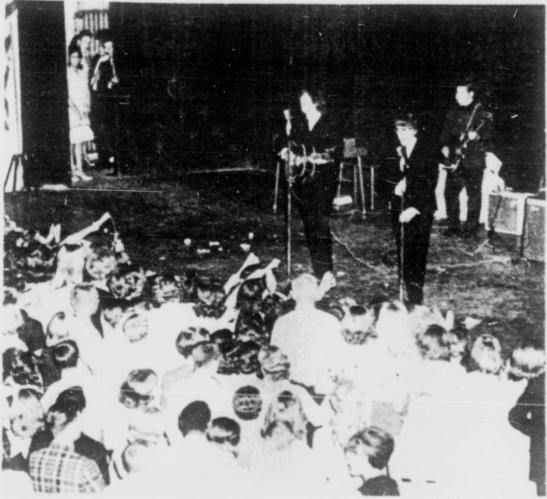

Says Jimmy significantly "This is the first time an area has banked on its (folk) culture. rather than on some scenic attraction, to draw tourists."

Jimmy Driftwood should know what he is talking about, he's had lots of experience in these matters. The folks of Mountain View have ambitious plans, but they are not fazed by it, rather they are inspired. They plan to build a 2.000-seat auditorium for folk singing and drama presentations. Around it would be classrooms for instruction in folk music (not the commercial kind, naturally, but the kind which keeps its intimate spirit between folk singer and audience) as well as instruction in folk art, folk dancing, and folklore. There will also be arts and crafts centers where craftsmen would demonstrate and sell the works. In nearby buildings visitors would be taught how to make

The thing is, of course, that the Mountain View folks plan to use the "cultural" resources which have been passed down something that is uniquely expressive of the Ozark country. not a high-brown musical or theatrical "cultural" center, but something which comes from the grass-roots level of the people. And it is in this that the plan for Mountain View is unique. It may be imitated by other localities, but in that case the other localities will have to find their own "unique" grass-roots cultural resources, instead of merely imitate that which Mountain View has.

This has another importance for the tourist trade. Unfortunately, as it is these days, a tourist may travel from one coast to another, and find more or less the same hot dog stand, the same drug stores, the same everything, in most every community they visit, let alone the same "regional" tourist novelties which only too often are all manufactured in Hoboken, New Jersey, or Dallas, Texas, the only difference being the label attached to the novelty gimmick, ashtray, doll, or wooden Indian.

But a project such as that of

Flocks of Teens Scream and Shriek For Mop-Topped Pair From England

By DICK FOSTER

Flocks of teens screamed, and shouted and groped at them Every time they made a move, a hundred frantic girls united to produce a big loud shriek. Why? Why else.

It was Peter and Gordon in person, direct from England. The popular pair appeared Wednesday night at the City Auditorium and staged two performances of about 20 minutes apiece.

Before, between and after the sound of Peter and Gordon, was a local five piece Rock and Roll group, the Persuaders. Whenever they finished a song they got applause - but it was nothing like the mass hysteria that gripped the place when the two celebrities took their positions on stage.

Moving to a big beat produced by the Esquires, a three piece Memphis, Tenn. band which is providing all their accompaniments here in America. Peter and Gordon emerged, one from each side of the stage, and rocked their way to the microphones in the center.

It was hard to hear what they were singing. They could barely be heard amid the screaming. Gordon, the showy half of the Mountain View in the Ozarks cannot be duplicated, because it belongs to that community, and nowhere else, and tourists will have to go to Mountain View to see, hear, and get the 'real thing." As far as the tourist trade is concerned, it is a refreshing innovation, and an example of other localities to exploit the things that are uniquely their own, instead of building more and more bingo Jimmy Driftwood's figuring of the entire probelm for Mountain View has resulted in the formation of the Stone County Development Council, to bring these projects about. The folks say: "We'll build what we can when we can. This project is the economic salvation of the county, and we don't intend to drop the due, started his frolics right away. He grabbed the microphone and bent right over the lip of the stage and sang straight in the faces of a few select gals. They probably didn't get any sleep at all that night.

As soon as the girls reached for a souvenir, like a pantleg or a shoestring, Gordon was gone. With a complicated shuffletype back step he slid from front stage to back and resumed his singing. However he would occasionally shoot off on little 15 or 20 foot journeys from side to side utilizing that shuffle maneuver to the croud's very obvious delight.

Peter stayed relatively quiet through the whole affair, occasionally managing a smile at some of the frantic fans below. But he never was carried to romping around the stage like his counterpart.

Perhaps the noisiest moments outside of their introduction were those when the pair sang World Without Love" and "Nobody I Know," their two smash platters in the States.

Pro Photographer Retires To Snap Pictures for Fun

When Ben Strauch was 17 years old he succumbed to a newspaper advertisement and invested $1 in a mail - order camera. The first picture was a success momentarily. The impression on the sensitized glass plate was good, but when he hung the print in the sun to dry the gelatin melted.

"So, the picture was not preserved for posterity," explains Strauch who, at 82, lives in retirement in Champaign, Ill., after 65 years in photography.

Hundreds of other pictures he took have been preserved, and he's still shooting, though now he has progressed from the oneshot box camera to color stereo.

Bernard A. (Ben) Strauch left his home in Chadwick, a small town in northwestern Illinois, to enroll in the University of Illinois, Champaign - Urbana, in 1903. To earn his way, he began taking pictures. He received a liberal arts degree in 1908 and a law degree two years later, but by that time found himself so deeply involved in photography that he never left the campus or the business.

Cameras were relatively rare in the early 1900s' but there was a growing demand for pictures. Ben and a brother, also a student, saw the opportunity. They took pictures of campus scenes and events, printed them on postcards and offered them for sale at a nickel apiece. (By comparison, a hamburger could be bought for 3 cents.)

The young men set up an order - taking center in the principal university building, but the operation drew such a crowd that they were soon evicted. Their darkroom facility in a student rooming house basement also outgrew itself, and the business moved to quarters above a campus book store.

Finally, in 1911, Strauch opened his own shop in the heart of the university business district, and there he stayed until his retirement in 1961, concentrating less on picture taking and more on merchandising cameras as the years passed. In the latter year he sold his modern, well - stocked camera, stationery and gift store and turned his attention to travel, gardening and — once again as a hobby — photography.

The Strauchs sometimes sold as many as 5,000 picture post cards on a single event, Ben recalls. Color rush and other traditional events that were common on campuses at the start of the century always meant big business.

The brothers worked hard at their trade, and almost any collection of souvenir photos from the U. of I. during the first third of this century will include pictures bearing the credit "Photo by Strauch."

Ben did most of the picturetaking, and his efforts then and now show a remarkable sense of timing and composition. His own favorite is a picture, taken about 1912, of Altgeld Hall, a university classroom building that once was the library. The picture, measuring 12 by 20

Funny Thing' on Way to Denver For Laugh-Filled Two Week Stand

One of Broadway's biggest musical comedy successes will open at the Auditorium Theatre in Denver on August 11 for two

It is "A Funny Thing Happend On The Way To The Forum", winner of six major theatrical awards including Best Musical of 1963.

"A Funny Thing" has one of the most star-studded casts to tour in recent years. Jerry Lester, Paul Hartman,, Erik Rhodes, and Arnold Stang head the company.

Producer of the musical is Martin Tahse, represented in other seasons by "The Miracle Worker", "Advise And Consent", "Fiorello!", and Helen Hayes & Maurice Evans in "A Program For Two Players",

The opening of the tour Christmas night in Philadelphia was a cheering triumph. The critics next day were generous in their praises: "The National Company looks like sure-fire duplication of its Broadway successes", says Variety, the so-called Bible of show business. Their prediction has proven accurate. Business has been of inches, is, Strauch says, a contact print.

"Making enlargements wasn't easy in those days, so, you started with a big plate or film." The camera used for the Altgeld picture was made by Folmer - Schwing, a division of Eastman, and weighed 20 pounds. "It wasn't very easy to carry around."

Strauch doesn't have the Folmer - Schwing, but he does have quite a collection of the camera equipment of an earlier day. (His wife insists he never throws anything away.)

One of his prize exhibits is a camera that used a 5 - foot roll of film. The owner shot as many yards as he desired, then shipped the whole thing off to the manufacturer for processing and reloading.

sell-out proportions everwhere. In Baltimore, "A Funny Thing" set the all-time attendance record previously, held by "My Fair Lady".

The musical is set in the Rome of 200 B. C. It is a story concerned, in a confused, madcap fashion, with the attempt of a slave to win the hand of a young virgin for his master. It seems simple enough, except that during the course of the show the stage is peopled with such lunatic characters as boasting soldiers, conniving slaves, over-eager young lovers, beautiful courtesans, domineering wives, and for good measure several people dressed up in the same disguise.

Somehow everything turns out right in the end. George Abbott, the dean of musical comedy, was the director. He personally selected every member of the company, along with lyricist-composer Stephen Sondheim and Burt Shevelove and Larry Gelbart.

Lyles Is Set For 4th Film

A. C. Lyles Productions is currently in its busiest period since moving on the Paramount lot 11 months ago. During that time, three features have been completed and a fourth is being scripted for an early start.

In World Wide distribution is "Law Of The Lawless," starring Dale Robertson, Yvonne de Carlo and William Bendix. Next week Lyles' "Stage To Thunder Rock" goes into Paramount release. The action drama's cast is headed by Barry Sullivan, Marilyn Maxwell, Scott Brady, Lon Chaney and Keenan Wynn.

The unit recently completed "Young Fury," starring Rory Calhoun, Virginia Mayo, Lon Chaney, John Agar and Richard Arlen with William Bendix appearing in a guest star role.

Steve Fisher is currently scripting "Black Spurs," which goes before the cameras in the near future. It will be the first feature on Lyles' new six-picture contract, calling for three Technicolor pictures yearly to be produced independently by the producer.

His Memories Live in Little Tin Cans And Come to Life on the Movie Screen

Text By RAY HERST Leisuretime Editor Photos By STAN PAYNE

Ken Murray is a man with a passion — a passion that comes in a little tin can and is perhaps the closest thing to a time machine in bringing memories back to life.

They are memories of people he has known and loved, people who are only fabulous names to much of the younger generation today but are the image of youth to some of the older generation. Some of these people are now dead, but Murray brings them back to life.

He can bring back a rough, tough, sneering Marie Dressler dressed in a motly fur; he summons a curly-headed, barefaced Charley Chaplain playfully strumming a tennis racket or an Adolph Menjou looking like the skinny kid next door trying to appear grown up in a mustache.

He recreates a breathtakingly beautiful Delores Del Rio, a mugging Marion Davies or a giggling, lovely Carole Lombard.

They are his passion and they live in Murray's fabulous collection of home movies which he will show again tonight at the Broadmoor.

They live in the movies and they breathe in Murray's vivid recollection of people, places and things.

Murray, a big man who uses a big cigar to smoke, point, emphasize, pound and write in the air with, is as excited about his collection as a kid with a new toy.

He pours forth a huge cloud of words as rapidly and thickly bunched together as the smoke from his famous cigar and one can't help but catch his excitement.

"It's like going into a museum and seeing it come to life," Murray says, his eyes as big as balloons. "Something like this will never happen again. The first time I used any of the films was on the Paar show. I was plugging a book — everybody writes a book — and I wanted to illustrate it so I threw some cans of film in a suitcase and took it with me."

He said he never expected the reaction the films brought. "When I walked out of that studio, I held that film in my hands. I carried it everywhere. I wasn't about to let it out of my sight," he said.

The precious films — some of them 37 years old — are now stored in three huge vaults and copies have been made of all them.

"I started to take those things to send home to my folks instead of sending them postcards I wanted pictures of the stars so I could show the folks what a big man I was in those days." Murray said about his first trip to Hollywood.

Murray forgot about most of the films. He didn't know that his mother and grandmother were carefully packing the films away in camphor.

"I didn't know camphor was good for films, but it sure was good for mine. The film people will tell you that film is no good after 30 years, but I've got stuff that's 37 years old," Murray said.

As he talks, the man who has tainment industry for more than atinment industry for more than 30 years, gestures frequently and all of the gestures utilize the cigar.

"I played Denver in 1929 and I got films of Denver before I got any of Hollywood," he said.

The first star he ever shot was Douglas Fairbanks Sr., the swashbuckling matinee idol of the silent screen and Murray's boyhood idol. He said he met Fairbanks by accident when the star came backstage at a theatre he was playing.

"I was a jerk in those days. Just like everybody who ever goes to Hollywood for the first time. I just went up to him and asked him if he would take me to the studio with him. He did." Murray says, relaxing a little as if reliving the occasion.

"I got pictures of him jumping off a roof, doing a flip right into my camera," he says, getting excited again. "Then he took me on other sets and I got pictures of Charlie Chaplain hamming it up and Mark Pickford."

He says he cannot call these films "old movies."

"I don't know what to call them. I really don't. They're not old films. This was a young, vital Hollywood with young, vital people," Murray explains. "I wish I could come up with a better name for them. I wish somebody would come up with a better name. This is actually an unofficial history of hollywood, of a town."

And that it is More than 125 stars appear in the two-hour program Murray will present. Stars from the days of Chaplain up to and including Sandra Dee, and Pat Boone clowning around in disguise in Disneyland.

He has the only intimate footage Cary Grant has permitted anyone to shoot. He has shots of New York's Jimmy Walker doing an impromptu dance, a young and laughing Hedda Hopper, handsome John Gilbert; Alan Ladd on the set of his last film and a copy of Ladd's screen test; there are shots of Maurice Chevalier singing his classic "Louise" for the first time on film and shots of Chevalier on the set of his latest movie; there are pictures of Lindberg and Marilyn Monroe and just about every major star to come out of Hollywood since None of them are rehearsed. None of them are formal. They are the stars being themselves and having a ball.

"I'll tell you, I was a real jerk. A real cornball," Murray says smiling and wrinkling the skin up around his eyes. "You know, once I was young and I used to go out with girls. In those days if you were a young man and bachelor, you dated a lot of girls and lot of stars.

"I was real jerk," he says again, shaking his head with its closely cropped, graying hair. "I used to run up, ring the doorbell and then run back down the sidewalk and focus on the door to get pictures of the people opening it."

Murray says his collection is the largest private collection of its type in the world. He said he has "hundreds of miles of film" he hasn't used. The show he said represents "the best in his collection."

The popular personality — who won an academy award in 1947 for his feature length "Bill and Coo," the first motion picture with a cast made up of just animals — has one priceless film sequence. Believed to be the only one of its kind anywhere, the sequence was shot at William Randolph Hearst's fabulous estate "San Simeon."

Murray splices some modernday footage of the magnificent castle and its art collection worth $50 million in with his shots of the carefree days there.

In that one sequence alone, which he screened for reporters earlier this week, the list of stars and personalities is staggering. There are shots of Hearst and Marion Davies that should bring back memories of that rip-roaring era of big headlines and personality clashes. It's a portrait of Hearst that

Arts Special
For Sept. 20
Members of the highly acclaimed Repertory Theatre of Lincoln Center, New York City, including David Wayne, Hal Holbrook, Joseph Wiseman, Salome Jens, Ralph Meeker and Jennifer West, will be seen in excerpts from the group's current repertoire of plays on the second hour-long "Lincoln Center Day" special, Sunday, Sept. 20 on the CBS Television Network.

The special, is part of the series of five annual broadcasts commemorating the anniversary of the opening night of New York's Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts. The initial anniversary broadcast, under the terms of an agreement between the network and Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts, Inc., was presented Sept. 22, 1963.

In this year's presentation, the acting company will appear in scenes from Arthur Miller's controversial new play "After the Fall" — his first new play after a nine-year silence — S.N. Behrman's new work "But for Whom Charlie." and a scene from the company's revival of Eugene O'Neill's "Marco Millions."

The broadcast will be produced and directed by Fielder Cook, one of television's outstanding talents. It will be taped in part, at the Repertory Theater's present temporary home a the ANTA Washington Square Theater and the still-in-construction Vivian Beaumont Theater in the Lincoln Center complex (the company's eventual home).

one does not think of when he is told of the man who revolutionized the newspaper business and the world to some degree. It is a carefree Hearst, clowning around and content.

Murray said that he has no particular favorites among the miles of footage he has.

"There are things that could happen in Hollywood. Like I have shots of Bing Crosby playing baseball with his kids on a sandlot behind a church and nobody else around. Nobody even paying attention and this is the man I consider to be the greatest entertainer of my era," Murray said.

Murray said that none of the footage in the show is taken from film clips of the stars movies. He includes some humorous shots of problems arising during his filming of "Bill and Coo," like the stars flying off and the cast chasing the villan down Hollywood Boulevard to return him for a vital scene.

"This is to break it up a little, you know what I mean.," he explains. Murray narrates the films from the stage. They are all in black and white though some of the original footage is in color.

"I was a real jerk in those days," Murray says relighting the cigar which has been gesturd out. "But I think I've got something. I got something that lives. I think I got something good."

And he does.
